HONOR MAGNATE'S MEMORY.

At the Hour of the Funeral Tomorrow
Every Wheel on the System
Will be Stopped.

The Oregon Short Line general offices are closed today as a mark of respect to the memory of E. H. Harriman. Only the officials and employees connected with the operating department are at their posts, necessitated by the maintenance of the train service on the road. Tomorrow, however, at 1:30 o'clock, all trains on the Harriman system will be stopped for one minute, as the funeral of the dead magnate begins at his home at Arden, N. Y.

The work of draping the Deseret News building, containing the general offices of the Oregon Short Line, the union station at the foot of South Temple street, the city ticket office at Second South and Main and the Utah Light & Railway company building on West Temple, is being completed this afternoon. Between 5,000 and 7,000 yards of black satin and white material are required. Early this morning the supply of black cloth ran out and two bales were expressed from the wholesale house of Seawright & Sons at Ogden to complete the work of draping the buildings.

UNION DEPOT.

At the union station the work is being done under the direction of A. Oliver, of the Keith-O'Brien company. The front entrance to the huge station is suitably hung with black cloth in scallops and streamers. The large waiting room is covered with 1,500 yards of the same material, the wall columns being entirely covered and connected at the top with scallops extending around the room, caught up with black rosettes and relieved with white bows and streamers in the center of the column drapes. Each of the two flag-staffs on the station building bears at half mast a large flag.

CITY TICKET OFFICE

The city ticket office and general office building are being draped by the Walker Bros. dry goods company representatives, while the Utah Light & Railway building drapery is being done by E. C. M. I. All the work is of strictly high class, and lends a funeral, though respectful appearance of dignity and mourning for the dead magnate. The entire work has been carried out under the direction of the general purchasing department of the Oregon Short Line, of which A. E. Hutchinson is the head. It is anticipated that the services in the various churches tomorrow may partake somewhat of the nature of memorial services for Mr. Harriman, as he was a benefactor especially of this city and state. No arrangements for special memorial services have been made, and outside of the general observance of stopping all trains on the system at the moment of commencing the funeral services, no formal service will be held in this city.
